FRIDAY, MAY 24, 1878,

Round Daneing. There was an element of the pro ears ago by old Bishop Johns, of Vir ginia, against "Round dancing." At that time Mrs. General Sherman had not electrified the country by her out burst on the subject, nor had the book called the "Dance of Death" appeared. Solitary and alone, almost, as a prelate, Bishop Johns came out on the subject, He de-nounced the practice as a "lascivious mode of promiscuous dancing," and as scandal not to be tolerated in the tle, of Virginia, following in the footsteps of his predecessor, spoke of it the other day as something not only calculated to "injure pure and undefiled religion, but even to sap the very foundations of all social virtue and morality." He closed his remarks on the subject as follows:

his remarks on the subject as follows:

"I will not discuss its character and consequences, for while St. Paul wrote to the church of Ephesus that it was a shame even to speak of those things which were done by some in secret, I should feel ashamed even to speak as the truth would require of this thing which is done openly, before all. I will only say that I trust no man or woman will be presented for confirmation who means to continue to participate in this abomination, and if the ministers of the church have no authority to discipline communicants as notorious evil doers who practice it, surely, this council should not fail to clothe them with such authority by canon."

ous dancing," it may be said that there seems to be an awakening on the subject among the churches. The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in 1876 counseled the sessions to arrest this evil as far as practicable by precept and example, and the Presbytery of St. Clairsville, acting on this expres the other day that all the sessions within the bounds of that Presbytery "be required to take such action on this subject as is necessary to prevent this inconcistent, compromising practice on the part of professing Christians."

In our humble judgment this move ment on the part of ecclesiastical bodies against what is known as "promiscuous dancing" is a step that is loudly called for. Observation has satisfied us that the dancing business as carried on in public places, especially at the balls in a city es more to demoralize female virtue than any one practice that obtains in remarks thus about it:

"One hogshead of tobacco has been received at the $18,000 warehouse at Bellaire and the prospects are good for another arrival, shortly." Homer Day, a New Athens merchant has made an assignment. His liabilities are said to be about $10,000.

"From the harrassing hum-drum of the Hall of the House and the hateful mono-tony of hotel hash, to his native hills and hoes, the happy Harvey has hastened home." As if the above atrocious specimen of alliteration was not sufficient, the Chroncle goes on to remark in the following fashion about the Hon, David Wagner "Worn with the work and wiles of Senatorial lite, the wild Wagner of West Wheeling has wheeled from the west his weary way."

A TEN acre field of wheat on the farm of Robert Kerr, Jr., two and a half miles southeast of St. Clairsville, was totally destroyed by the hail storm on Monda destroyed by the and storm of Monday ovening. It was one of the finest fields of wheat in that section. Several fields have been reported badly used up, among them those of Wm. J. and Samuel Clark, out this one, in particular, is completely uined. Three years ago a similar mis-ortune happened Mr. K. icle says that in a remote the Captain kindly gave a supper in honor of the occasion.

The Caronice says that in a remote corner of Belmont county there recently died an old man who once showed his neighbors how to settle a domestic difficulty without going to law. When his wife ran off with another man, he, simply at the expense of a single day's work, hunted up the other man's wife and quietly adopted her as his own. For nearly half a century they lived faithfully together, until separated by death. Thus without the aid of Church or State was the shattered peace of two halves of families permanently and neatly repaired.

F. M. CHALFANT, ESQ.

Of Lewis County, Wanted as an Independent Candidate.

BUCKHANNON, May 20. Editors of the Intelligencer.

The opening contest for the Senatorial succession in this district has developed a new feature, in the anticipated candidacy of F. M. Chalfant, Eq., of Weston, who is now being strongly urged by the anti-Bourbons of the district to run as an independent candidate. The movement strikes consternation into the ranks of the "party lash" people, for Mr. Chalthe "party lash "people, for Mr. Chalfant, in more than one contest, has shown an ability rarely equalled in a political canvass. Bothafriends and foes well remember the telling blows he dealt to the new Constitution and all its attendant evils, and even Sam Woods himself (the great champion of that fearfully and worderfully made instrument) will confess that Mr. Chalfant did more than any other individual in the state in endex-oring to defeat it. If he will now become a candidate for Senator from the Sixth District he will be triumphantly elected. We have had enough of politicians; and want to send men to the Legislature, irrespective of party, who are good business men—not students of the resolutions of '98 and the Montgomery Constitution. With Mr. Chalfant at the fore, an easy victory will be won for honesty, good government and progressive ideas, over old-fogylsm, shoddy aristocracy and flint-lock politics. UPERUR.

fine view of these, the finest fortifications in the world. Before noon we sailed into the Mediterranean, glad indeed to exchange the bolsterous waters of the A lantic for its quiet sunlit waves. Ship life became now not only endurable, but delightful. A moonlight night on the Mediterranean is one of the loveliest scenes on earth. With the waters as smooth as glass yet gently undulating, every star above multiplied in the movscenes on earth. With the saces and specified in the most ing mirror below, and with the moon flashing her light along the smooth crest of each bright billow, and making the trail of the gold old ship like a broad street of the golden city, one wishes that the night might never end. We sailed between Malta and Sicily on the 23d of November, each of which were dimly discernable. On the evening of November 25th, we anchored at Port Said, the engage of the sailed between the case of the sailed between the sailed the sailed the sailed between the sailed the sail cernable. minded us that we were getting sadly behind in the war news. We all went sahore, and after wandering about this disagreeable place and purchasing a few curiosities, meanwhile being peatered continually by the dirty, half-naked begars for "baksheesh!" "baksheesh!" we gladly returned to the ship. There we beheld a strange sight. During our absence two large bargee had come on either side, from which hundreds of tawny half-naked natives were coaling the steamer by means of little flat baskets which they carried on their heads. beheld a strange sight. During our absence two large barges had come on either side, from which hundreds of tawny half-naked natives were coaling the steamer by means of little flat baskets which they carried on their heads. This seems like a slow way to coal a large steamer, but there were so many laborers that it was accomplished even more rapidly than at Gibraltar. These barges were lighted with burning coals in coarse network baskets made of strips of metal. The dirty smoke from these, the falling of the red-hot pieces into the water as some fellow poked the coals for a better light, the defending gibberish, made the best representation of the lower regions one on cares to see. We thought: "Are these really men, and have they souls?" We entered the canal next morning and were out at sea once more after a few minutes stopping at that place. The cool sea breezs was grateful after two days in the hot canal with its stretches of glaring sands on either said. The RG Sea is very dangerous. We had reason for thinking so the night after we entered it. It was quite dark, although early in the vening. We were sitting on deck, having some music around the pisno, (for the Captain had kindly permitted it to be brought up), when 'suddenly the ship appeared to grate over something. The bell rang, the engines were reversed, and there but a few feet from us were the dreadful rocks called the Brothers. Instantiy all was confision, which was heightened when the Captain shouted "Cut away the boats," It slices fainted, children screamed, men ran for their valuables, mothers for their sleeping babes below, and ship were decreated in momentarily expecting to strike one of the outlying hidden rocks. Our preservation seemed mirrao into wheeling and many other bodily aliments. It also countered the contract of the results of the red to th

After the excitement had subsided we had prayer in the cabin, where even heart unaccustomed to prayer went up to Go in thankfulness for his merciful care. W felt uncomfortable during the remaining days in this treacherous sea, and the he days in this treacherous sea, and the heat too, was intense.

On the night of December 4th we sailed through the narrow straits and morning found us in the Gulf of Aden. In the Indian Ocean we had some rough weather, causing, by the rolling of the ship, a painful accident to one of my traveling companions. She was thrown on the deck and her right arm broken. This was very distressing, as the constant motion of the vessel caused excruciating pain. Two nights before entering port we held a concert, which was hardly as good as the one on the Devonia had been. After it the Captain kindly gave a support in honor of the occasion.

THE UNITED PRESBYTERIANS. What Was Done Out at Cambridge Yesterday --- Anxiety Among the Ministers as to the Report of the Committee on

Home Missions. Special Report for the Wheeling In The attendance at the U. P. General Assembly was considerably increased to-day, as was also the interest. Moderator Irvine has taken hold of his work in a business-like manner, and had all his important committees ready for announcement this morning, as a result of diligent labors extending far into the preceding night, as your correspondent happens to know. These committees are the Home Missions, Foreign Missions, Finance Education, Church Extension, &c. ANXISTY AMOSO THE MINISTERS.

The reports of the several Standing Committees on the varied interests of the church for the past year were submitted in due form to the consideration of the Assembly, for adoption, alteration or rejection. The Committee on Home Missions, which under the present church government has probably more business than several of the others together, will not submit their report until to-morrow. It is now in the hands of the printer. This Committee has well night 100 members, more than one-half of whom are present here. The matter of appointments or assignments of labor belongs to this committee, and as it is understood that some twenty or more ministers are to be left out of employment, much anxiety is felt on account of their report. There seems to be a disposition to discourage licentiates, and the matter of affording educational privileges to young men inclined in this direction meets with little favor from ANXIETY AMONG THE MINISTERS.
